There was no fire about the building during the day or evening, and about the only supposition is that it was of incendiary origin, though it must have been a bold scoundred who would dare been at such an early hour. The loss will be about $800, and there is no insurance.

The fire made a bright light, and aroused the neighbors, who hastened to keep a close watch and see that nearly buildings were not fired by the sparks. In this connection one man was severely injured. His name is John Hubbard, and he lives in Bellaire. He is a painter by trade and has been at work painting out in the Leather-wood district. He was running to the fire when he tripped on something and fell. In falling he struck on some sharp substance that cut a deep gash in his groin. The pain for a time was intense and he was barely able to crawl to Mr. Greer's house. Immediately after arriving there he fainted and a city physician had to be sent for to fix him up. He is not seriously hurt, however, and will soon be able to be about again.

the garbage service is faulty and there is none. The Committee did not meet Monday night as Chairman Campbell said it would when he peremptorily adjourned it to give Dr. Garrison and himself more latitude to call each other things. Dr. Garrison therefore desired to present the report to Council, but could not at last night's special session. He had written the following:

To the Honoroble, the Mayor and Council of the City of Washing:

GENTLEMEN:—Your attention is respectfully called to the now imperative necessity for more ample facilities for the destruction of dead animals, night soil and garbage. Longer delay in the matter of erecting a larger furnace will be at the peril of the lives and health of the people of this city.

I have in former communications pointed out to your honorable body the need of such addition to your sanitary department. There is nothing I can say further, as to the importance of this measure of protection to the public health.

I submit herewith a copy of a report prepared at the request of the Committee on Health, showing the location of over 1,400 habitations where the garbage is removed irregularly, or not at all. demonstration. A bad state of the weather will, in fact, be the only thing being made from culminating in a gratiying success.

Hon. John Corcoran, who has been parade, that is to take place in the morning, last evening reported to the
